The Policy Dealers Before Judge Gildersleeve To-Day.

He Fines Them All on Their Plea of Guilty.

A Large Throng of Gamblers Crowd the Courtroom.

Four of the policy dealers who were arrested, indicted and brought to trial through the efforts of The Evenine Wolld, and who pleaded guilty of the offense charged in the Court of General Sessions yesterday, were arraigned before Judge Gitdersleeve and sentenced this morning.

They are Charles Siebert, of West Broadway and Canal street; Henry Smith, of 181 Greene street; Frank Collins, of 281 South Fifth avenue, and George Brown, of 44 Thompson street.

They had been remanded until to-day in order that the records might be searched to discover if any of them had ever been convioted of the same offense before. It was announced by Assistant Districtvicted of the same offense before.

It was announced by Assistant District. Attorney Foster in court this morning that no record of any previous conviction had been found against them.

George Brown was the first defendant called to the bar.

He was questioned by Judge Gildersleeve, and admitted that he had been two years in the business as a policy writer at the place where he was arrested. He was not the proprietor of the place, but only an employee.

Henry Smith said that he had been five years in the policy business, but had never kept a shop, and Collins and Siebert, the former of whom had been a policy writer for four years and the latter for two, by their own admissions, both said they were only employees and not backers.

Collins also admitted that he had once before been arrested for selling policy slips, but had been discharged by a Police Justice because it was a case of mistaken identity.

After talking with the Assistant District Attorney and Lawyer Coman, who represented the policy dealers, Judge Gildersleeve turned to the defendants and pronounced the sentence of the Court.

"I have exercised extra care in these cases," he said, 'because of the unusual interest taken in the matter by the complainant and others who are behind him.

"When the cases appeared on my calendar I was not aware that there then was anything of special interest attaching to them, more than to any other case of indictment under the Gambling law.

"I am sorry these cases did not come before me in the first instance, for then I could have disposed of them promptly and with less feeling of responsibility than now. I propose, however, to impose such penalties as the cases deserve.

"I am sorry these cases did not come before me in the first instance, for then I could have disposed of them promptly and with less feeling of responsibility than now. I propose, however, to impose such penalties as the cases deserve.

"I have offenders to justice.

"It industrious reporters have gathered the evidence upon which they have been convict ing out crimes and bringing offenders to justice.

"I have interviewed my associates this morning, and Recorder Smyth tells me that it has never been his practice to imprison a person convicted of policy-dealing where it is the first offense.

"It has not been my practice either, and therefore I propose to fine you all," he added, turning to the prisoners.

"When you entered into the business you knew it was illegal, and I can fine you or imprison you for a year.

"Smith, your case is more aggravated than the others, and I sentence you to pay a fine of $100. The others are sentenced to pay a fine of $50 each, and you stand committed till the fine is paid, one day for each dollar."

The fines were paid. There were many gamblers in court.

NO NEW CAPTAIN JUST YET.

There Is More Red Tope, and Bestdes Commissioner Voorhis Is in Buffalo.

Owing to the absence of Commissioner Voorhis at the Democratic State Convention there is no meeting of the Police Commis sioners to-day, and the selection of a Captain to succeed the late Charles McDonnell goes over till Friday at the earliest. Meantime it is hoped that Secretary Lee Meantime it is hoped that Secretary Lee Phillips, of the Civil-Service Commission, will find time to forward an eligible list of the three highest rated candidates.

The choice is in the hands of Mr. Mc-Lean, and it is an open secret that Sergt. Thompson, of the Sixth Precinct, is his preference, with only Farley, Thompson and Creden to select from.

Before he left for Buffalo Commissioner Voorhis put himself on record in opposition to the civil service decision that eligible lists for commissioned offices are of five years' duration. He favors a fresh competitive examination for each recurring vacancy, so as to introduce the best and freshest blood in the department.

Fully fifteen Sergeants await an opportunity to show the civil service examiners how much book knowledge they can exploit, and every one of them feels that he is just the man for a captainey.

Grammar School in June, and his father desired to send him to the College of the City of New York.

But the boy didn't want to go to school any longer. He has been a constant reader of yellow-covered, blood and thunder literature for a year or two, and he thought it time for him to begin the work of making his fortune and fame.

So yesterday, when he set out for the house of his chum, a son of E. J. Winteroth, the East Fourteenth street piano dealer, who was to accompany him to the college, it was with no intention of following his father's plan.

Instead he went to the Germania Savings Bank and drew therefrom $22 which he had saved out of earnings in his father's shop. He had $6 besides and a gold watch worth

He had $6 besides and a gold watch worth $55.

These formed his capital, and this morning his mother, a comely woman with a mother's love and admiration, received a note from the lad postmarked at Jersey City.

In it he said he didn't want to go to college, but feared his father would whip him. He would rather seek his fortune. He asked that no attempt be made to find him.

Mrs. Marschneider's eyes gleamed with affection for the boy and pride in him as she said to an Evenino Woald reporter; "Oh, no; I shall not worry about Eddle. He was a good boy. Lively, but not bad. But we shall try; to find him just the same. He was rather large for his age, and could probably earn a living with what he has learned of the work of making butchers' fixtures in his father's shop."

THEIR STRANGE SECOND MEETING.

A Doctor Saves the Life of the Woman H Believes to Have Robbed Him.

Dr. M. Markiewicz, of 251 Broome street, member of the night medical staff, was summoned to the Eldridge street station Friday night last to attend Nellie Bushner, who had attempted suicide by taking a dose of rat poison.

The woman was sorry for what she had done and pleaded of the doctor that he would save her life. The physician worked like a beaver, and it was undoubtedly due to his efforts that the woman's life was saved.

Subsequently, when the woman was able to sit in a chair, the doctor exclaimed:

"Why, that's the woman who robbed me of my gold watch and chain!"

Aug. 20, 1887, Dr. Markiewicz was summoned to 45 Chrystie street to visit a sick woman. It was a warm day and the doctor found it necessary to take off his coat and vest.

Mrs. Bushner and two others were in the room.

The doctor afterwards missed his gold watch and chain, valued at $300, and caused Mrs. Bushner's arrest. She was acquitted, though the doctor believes to this day that she took his watch.

At the Essex Market Court to-day, where the woman was arraigned for attempting suicide, the doctor produced $50 and said:

"Tell me where I can find my property and I'll give you this."

The woman insisted that she was innocent. She was held for examination on the charge of attempting to take her life.

INSPECTOR STEERS'S BIG HEART.

This Orphan and Destitute Waif Found Ald at Police Headquarters.

Annie Kelleher, an orphan, pretty and eighteen years old, left her home in Albany on the day boat and arrived here last night bound for Wilmington, Del., to visit her uncle. On the boat her trunk was burst open by reckless handling, and she was compelled to pay $1 for a strap to hold it together.

Other little incidental expenses reduced her surplus to $1.50 less than the cost of a fare to Wilmington. She applied to the Association for the Relief of Friendless Girls, near the Battery, and was informed that nothing could be done for her.

She wandered along the river front and met a policeman, who took her to pier A, and she was sent to Police Headquarters, where she stayed overnight with Matron Webb, This morning her story was told to Inspector Steers and his great sympathetic heart was moved.

moved.
"Poor girl," he said, "she was the fond who knows daughter of a good mother, and who knows when one we love may be situated similarly."
Suiting the action to the word, the benevolent Inspector handed Annie more than enough money to meet her expenses and all necessary contingencies, and sent Policeman Internan of the Steamboat Squad to see that she was sent safely on her lonely journey.

THE WHYO LEADER AGAIN.

Owen Bruon Held for Trial for Robbery and Attempted Murder.

Owen Bruen, the reputed leader of the Whyo gang, was arraigned in the Tombs Police Court this morning, charged by Herman Bruns, a grocer at 33 Park street, with robbery and attempted murder.

On Sept. 3 Bruen entered the grocery store and demanded $1.50. It was given him, for the grocer feared violence. Shortly after, the grocer feared violence. Shortly after, the grocer alleges, Bruen again entered the store and demanded $2. a

This was refused, and Bruen drew a bull-dog revolver and struck Bruns over the head, A two-pound iron weight was next fired at the grocer and also a shot from the revolver. Bruen then cursed the grocer and left the store.

Justice Smith held the prisoner without bail for trial.

A SISTER'S CRUEL WORDS.

They Drove Pretty Long Rubin to a Suicidal Act.

Lena Rubin, a nineteen-year Polish girl of very prepossessing appearance, attempted to take her life early this morning by swallowing a dose of Paris green at her residence, 174 Rivington street.

She was a very refined and sensitive girl. Two months ago Henry Witzberger, her brother-in-law, committed suicide, and his widow. Annie, went to live with her mother, Lens and a younger sister.

She was the mainstay of her mother and sister, but abtained from work on Monday on the plea of illnoss. She retired at 11 o'clock r. m. on Monday with her younger sister, and in an hour she was groaning with pain. Dr. Goldenkrang was called and pronounced her to be suffering from Paris green poisoning. She was sent to, Gouverneur Hospital in a very low condition.

It is said in the neighborhood that Annie, the widow, is a woman of very violent temper, and that her husband killed himself on account of jealousy of her. Her mother told her to leave the house after her quarrel with Lena, and she is now a servant with a Dr. Hamburger.

> Pressing Need of Experienced Nurses to Tend the Sick—The Fover Growing More Malignant and More Speedily Fatal— Panie at St. Luke's Hospitul-Ten Thousand People Destitute.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 11.-Two more deaths bring the number of victims of Yellow Jack up to eighty at noon to-day. There are sixteen new cases reported at the same hour, making the total to date 648. Over 500 of these are still under treatment, and to be continued during this week at still the lack of a sufficient force of experienced nurses is growing daily more apparent.

The eighteen who came from New Orleans were applied for by more than eighty persons.

Twenty more arrived from Charleston this morning and it is estimated that there are yet 100 too few.

The death of Rev. Dr. Sharpe was undoubtedly the result of an inexperienced—indeed ignorant—colored nurse, who, at the command of the delirious patient, gave him first a hot bath and then cracked ice on the soles of his feet and on his neck.

Quick cases are growing alarmingly frequent. J. S. McKennon, a clerk in a shoe store, was at work Saturday, taken down Sunday morning, dead the same night and buried yesterday.

Ten cottages, 15 by 20 feet in size, are being built on the Sand Hills Hospital Grounds, and every opportunity is being given to the people to leave the city for the refugee camps with better results than formerly, as the people see that there is no other alternative.

The fearful effects of the storm of Friday and Saturday are being felt. The first victim was Freight Agent Edgar Davidson. He was well enough to sit by the window watching the rain on Saturday. He caught cold and died within an hour.

Panic fills those who are at St. Luke's Hospital, as it has become plain that it is a plague spot. Two nurses there were taken down yesterday, and the fatality there has been abnormally large. No more patients will be the balance to the control of the control of the Post-Office Department at Washington have raised and sent $250 through Senator (Call, and there have been hundreds of responses from individuals all over the country. There are now fully 10,000 people in desti-tution, and there must surely be more very shortly.

A train is being made up for the North today, and it will probably carry at least 100 persons out of the reach of the plague, and into a climate wherein the fever can be fought more successfully than in this in-

residents of the lower part of Tillary street, Brooklyn, are talking about a somewhat pathetle though amusing episode which occurred last night.

Mrs. C. B. Hodgkin, a prepossessin young woman, lives with her husband at 224 Tillary street and was the principal actor in the strange case. Late yesterday afternoon her husband, who returned about two weeks ago from New Haven, Conn., where he had been working

The Coroner was notified of the drowning, and the unfortunate man's body was carefully examined, and no marks of violence were found upon him, but notwithstanding this fact, suspicion was attached to John Rogers, a fellow-printer, who had accompanied Mr. Hodgkin to New Haven and subsequently left him there.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Hodgkin could not be comforted, and her kind-hearted neighbors were deeply moved by her intense sorrow. At 10.30 she retired, completely exhausted by the strain wrought on her nerves.

Scarcely five minutes later a key grated in the lock and a man entered and lighted the gas. She was in a quiet doze at the time, but the noise occasioned by the door closing aroused her, and looking up she saw her husband preparing to disrobe. She screamed, and the neighbors rushed in to find the man whom they thought dead watching their goings-on with ill-concealed astonishment.

Some of the superstitious ones believed he was a ghost and ran shricking from the house. He soon satisfied them that he was flesh and blood, however, by lighting a pipe and breaking out in a violent fit of laughter, and breaking out in a violent fit of laughter, in which the others soon joined.

Mr. Hodgkin is quite well known in that section of the city, and this morning he reported to the police that he was better than a hundred drowned men.

The body which was mistaken for his was removed to the Morgue.

A MIDDLE-AGED MASHER,

He'll Find It Cheaper to Be Surer in His Thoughts. Another street masher came to grief at the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning. He was a tall, stout man, dressed in a suit of check and wearing a white lawn necktie. He was complained of by two young ladies in West Fourteenth street, who told Policeman Edward Costa, of the Mercer street staman Edward Costa, of the Mercer street station, that he had insulted them as he passed by attempting to attract their attention.

The policeman watched him and saw him after that poke his umbrella into the sides of two other iadies who hastened to be out of his way. As the policeman approached him, he ran to a University place car. The policeman chased after and caught him. To Justice Gorman he described himself as John Sickenberger, aged thirty-nine, a designer for the Edison Electric Light Company, living at 50 East Eleventh street. He said he thought he knew the two ladies. He was fined $10,

After an Eleping Daughter. The Long Island City police last night received a espatch from Mrs. Hendricks, of Bay Snore, L. L., forming them that her daughter Battle had left on the 2.12 train for New York, which was due at Hunter's Point at 10.28 P. M. The mother believed that her daugater had cloped. A close watch was kept upon a? the passengers alighting from the Sag Harbor express, but no one answering the de-scription of the girl or her supposed esport could be seen.

As he invariably kept his word, Mrs. Hodgkin felt some uneasiness when 7 o'clock passed and he did not put in an appearance. At 8 o'clock she had heard no tidings of her spouse, and just as she was preparing to go in search of him. an officer from the Second Precinct knocked at her door.

Apprehending that harm had befallen her rushand, she exclaimed excitedly:

"Oh, where is my husband? What has happened to him?"

"Madam," began the burly, but kindharted officer, a big lump rising in his throat as he beheld the little woman's anxiety. "Madam, your husband has just been found drowned off Colb Dock."

With an hysterical scream Mrs. Hodgkin swooned, and it was thought best not to disturb her.

The Coroner was notified of the drowning, and the unfortunate man's body was carefully examined, and no marks of violence were found upon him, but notwithstanding this fact, suspicion was attached to John Rogers, a fellow-printer, who had accompanied Mr. Hodgkin to New Haven and subsequently left him there.
